

Serving the Hudson River with Pride for 54 Years

A Message from Our President

The beauty of the Beacon Sloop Club is that it is run completely by volunteers. If you are looking for ways to get involved, donating your time, energy and talent, there are plenty of opportunities here at the Club.

If you are concerned about the environment, your ideas would be appreciated as we strive to fulfill our club mission of protecting the Hudson River and its environs. If your passion lies in the culinary arts, volunteering at our festivals can provide an outlet. If interacting with the public brings you joy, if hospitality is your calling, if you are a salesperson, there is also a place for you under our Strawberry, Corn and Pumpkin Festival tents. If you are well-versed in the complexities of community relations or conversant in the dynamics of human diversity, we urge you to consider joining our renewed efforts to expand the club's commitment to embracing diversity and inclusion.

Should you be one of those fortunate ones blessed with manual dexterity, if you enjoy solving structural problems, if you are a skilled electrician or woodworker, you will be a welcomed addition to our Building Committee. These trusted volunteers are dedicated to the care, upkeep, maintenance and improvement of our fine clubhouse, keeping us safe, sheltered and warm. If you like to gather, haul and split wood, our firewood bins can always use refilling. If you have a green thumb, why not consider assisting those valued volunteers who maintain our lawn and plants? Do you enjoy working outdoors? If so, your presence on the Woody maintenance crew, or on the Harbor Committee, would be most appreciated. Speaking of appreciating our volunteers, we send a heartfelt thanks to our extraordinary volunteer, Captain James Malchow for his magnificent work creating new ratlines for the Woody!

If your predilections are of a more literary bent, you could certainly help spread the word about our club activities. Should your inclinations lean more towards music or sound production and design, there are options to contribute your expertise to our many musical endeavors. If you are gifted with the talents of a visual artist, your passion could be channeled for decorative and design purposes, creating posters, signs, flyers, tee shirts and other merchandise.

Whatever your skill, passion or avocation may be, you will find a welcoming community at the Beacon Sloop Club.

Max said he is working on efficient and effective means of volunteer communications that allow for rapid communication for changes in plans. "Group text is helpful, but sometimes people are left out."

The Beacon Parks and Recreation Department has provided Black locust logs going into the boat for new carlins around the engine hatch. The lumber, a $2,000 value, is being air dried, and will be milled by the Lorenzos, neighbors of Gail Moran and Steve Schwartz.

A Few Words on Membership

It's that time of year again. The majority of our members are on a January renewal cycle, a legacy of the pre-electronic era. This also speaks volumes about the longevity of people's commitment to our humble little organization. Anyone who joins in Nov/Dec is put on the January cycle as well.

Being all-volunteer, with no paid staff, and no office support, we rely 100% on our membership for everything we do. You are the Beacon Sloop Club!

So, please consider renewing your membership as soon as possible, if you have been away, please come back. If you believe in what we do, spread the word, recruit a friend(the younger the better). You would be surprised at how many of our neighbors don't know about the organization, or think we are a yacht club.

While the membership fee helps to pay our expenses, a robust and vibrant membership serves us in so many other ways, providing diversity in ideas, fuel for grants, and leverage with local government.

Hudson Valley Environmental News

Your voices were heard! Many of you attended hearings hosted by the Army Corps of Engineers, soliciting comments on proposals for storm surge management around the New York City area in the aftermath of hurricane Sandy. Many of those proposals called for major barriers, which would have restricted tidal flow and fish movement, impacting the entire estuary and its ecosystem. All this at great cost and with unproven effectiveness.

This fall the Army Corps of Engineers released a new NY & NJ Harbor and Tributaries Focus Area Feasibility Study \(HATS\), eliminating the previously proposed barriers, opting instead for shoreline walls and a dozen smaller storm gates across tributaries. While this is great news for the estuary, the new proposals require careful scrutiny for their impact.

Thank you to our members who raised their voices and their pens. Comment Period for the New York New Jersey Harbor and Tributaries Coastal Storm Risk Management Feasibility Study \(NYNJ HATS\) remains open until March 7.

He will be joined by Dr. Kathy Nolan, an MD with pediatric expertise and moderated by Courtney Willimas, PhD. Register to attend.

Honoring Ronald Zorrilla,
Founder & CEO of Outdoor Promise and Captain Betsy Garthwaite

Thank you to Owen Walsh.

Owen Walsh kicked off our lecture series with songs and stories, including a ballad of heartache and angst written when he was in middle school.

He was caught a bit off guard when ending his performance with a tribute to Lead Belly, the whole room joined in on Goodnight Irene. It really brought the meaning of our humble little club home to him.

Owen is a young man of immense talent, and we wish him well, as he embarks on the next stage of his career in Asheville NC. I think we will be hearing his name again.

If you missed it, you can see a bit of Owen's work on YouTube. <https://youtu.be/41LcIE4fWLI>, or <https://youtu.be/AH2tTlocYpo>

Between August 2001 and April 2010, MTA New York City Transit deployed more than 2,500 decommissioned train cars to underwater locations off the coasts of New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, South Carolina, and Georgia.

Most people look at construction sites and machinery and see nothing more than concrete and steel. Stephen Mallon looks at them and sees both a surreal beauty and the wonder of their engineering.

Stephen Mallon is a photographer and filmmaker who specializes in the industrial-scale creations of mankind at unusual moments of their life cycles. Mallon's work blurs the line between documentary and fine art, revealing the industrial landscape to be unnatural, desolate and functional yet simultaneously also human, surprising and inspiring. It has been featured in publications and by broadcasters including The New York Times, National Geographic, NBC, and The Wall Street Journal.

Mallon served as a board member of the New York chapter of the American Society of Media Photographers from 2002 until 2020 and served as president from 2006 to 2009. He is represented by Front Room Gallery in New York.

He lives in Hudson Valley with his wife Sascha and their daughter Josephine.
